

Extracted from the Annual Report of School A 2002-2003 (available for public access on the Internet)

1. Annual Mission of School A: To bring children wisdom, knowledge, and happiness.
2. Annual Targets: To facilitate and nurture the reading habit and self learning.
3. No. of Classes: 28
4. School Guidance in the Annual Report: The report of Student Guidance is not included. Report from the Discipline Master uses two sentences to show there was a Whole-School Approach Guidance Programme and the beginning of the PGE. SGT was not consulted before.

Extracted from the Annual Report of School A 2003-2004 (available for public access on the Internet)

1. Annual Mission of School A: Children are educable; let us bring them the wisdom, knowledge, and critical thinking skills.
2. Annual Targets: more appreciations to students, more involvement of student to enhance their self-esteem
3. No. of Classes: 27
4. School Guidance in the Annual Report: There is a brief report about the guidance work done. Guidance work was formally put under the domain of School Ethos and Student Support; moreover, there is a new term, 'Discipline and Guidance', so a combination was apparently done. Of note is that there was an External School Review in this year.

Extracted from the Annual Report of School A 2004-2005 (available for public access on the Internet)

1. Annual Mission of School A: to bring children wisdom, knowledge, happiness, and critical thinking skills.
2. Annual Targets: To develop the potential of children by encouraging their creativity and attempts.
3. No. of Classes: 26
4. The development of the PGEP was noted in the list of curriculum development. The breakthrough of the school in addressing Student Guidance. Guidance work was continuously included under the domain of School Ethos and Student Support, being part of the school at the moment. Moreover, elements of guidance were put into the annual target, and the relevant projects were addressed more explicitly than before.

Extracted from the Annual Report of School A 2005-2006 (available for public access on the Internet)

1. Annual Mission of School A: To bring children the wisdom.
2. Annual Targets: To develop the potential of children by encouraging their courage for all kinds of challenges.
3. No. of Classes: 27
4. This year, the structure of the school was re-organized after the external review; categorization was done to re-group the function groups again. The guidance work was described clearly in the annual report for public access. All guidance programs are listed in detail and described in the report after the external review. PGE was still under the holistic curriculum plan.

Change in PGE time allocation since 2006 (available for public access on the Internet)

Since 2006, because of insufficient teaching time, extra-curricular activities (ECA), personal growth education (PGE), and moral and civic education (MCE) were put together and swap every week. This shows that the war for TIME never stops. Every department wanted to fight for its time slot. Integration or collaboration has not been an option since 2006. Time allocation for RE, MCE, PGE were affected as a result.